

ABSTRACT

An apparatus for displaying information received from a communication apparatus includes: a key information producing unit configured to produce key information for authenticating the communication apparatus; a key information display unit for displaying the key information; an authentication information receiving unit for receiving authentication information; an authenticating unit for authenticating the communication apparatus by verifying whether or not the authentication information was formed based upon the key information; and a display information receiving unit for displaying information from the authenticated communication apparatus.

I:\ATTY\KDPI\24'S\248109US\248109US-NEW APP 2-6-04.DOC